

Amble

Amble is a picturesque coastal town in Northumberland, situated at the mouth of the River Coquet, approximately 9 miles south of Alnwick. The town features a traditional working harbour, marina, colourful beach huts, independent shops and seafood eateries, offering a mix of coastal charm and small-town character. The surrounding area includes sandy beaches, open coastline and views towards Coquet Island, providing varied settings for filming, from fishing-port scenes to scenic seaside sequences. Amble has also featured as a filming location for ITV drama Vera. The town is accessible by road via the A1068, with bus connections to nearby towns and villages.
